

1. Write a Python program that iterate over elements repeating each as many times as its count.
2. Write a Python program to find the most common elements and their counts of a specified text.
3. Write a Python program to find the occurrences of 10 most common words in a given text.
4. Write a Python program that accept some words and count the number of distinct words. Print the number of distinct words and number of occurrences for each distinct word according to their appearance.
5. Write a Python program that accept name of given subject and marks. Input number of subjects in first line and subject name, marks separated by a space in next line. Print subject name and marks in order of its first occurrence.